

Horizontal Sheer Shade Benefits

- Reduced Energy Cost
- Stop UV Ray Damage
- Light Control
- Privacy

Horizontal Sheer Shades offer you total light control using light filtering or room darkening fabric vanes that float between layers of soft sheer fabric. Control your view from complete privacy to fully retracted fabric and everything in-between.

The Horizontal Sheer Shade, often referred to as a drapery shade, gives the soft look of fabric and yet has the light control of a horizontal wood blind. The floating fabric vanes are available in 2 inch or 3 inch widths and offer a wide style of fabrics to match the look of your home decor. These shades can control how much light comes through the fabric vanes based on the fabric type you select. The light filtering fabric allows soft light to flow through while providing privacy. The room darkening fabric blocks light effectively for eliminating sunlight glare on your TV or creating a darker bedroom to sleep in.

How Do Horizontal Sheer Shades Work?

The Horizontal Sheer Shade works on the same premise as a horizontal wood blind. The wooded slats are replaced with fabric vanes and the corded ladders are replaced with two pieces of sheer mesh. The two sheer meshes are attached at the top, to a roller tube in an enclosed head rail and the fabric vanes are suspended in-between the two pieces of sheer mesh. These fabric vanes are spaced at 2 or 3 in. increments and the sheer mesh pieces are anchored by a bottom rail at the end of the fabric. The fabric vanes are left in the open view position by turning the roller tube so that the fabric is completely lowered. To close the fabric vanes the roller tube is turned slightly upwards so that the fabric is raised a little. The fabric is completely raised when the roller tube is rotated all the way to the up position. They can be controlled by a manual clutch or motorized.

Horizontal Sheer Shades fit most windows and do have size limitations.
