- Noise Reduction
- Privacy

Roll-Up Shutters can blend in with your buildings architecture and can become invisible. When building a new home, they can be incorporated into the structure so they will only be visible when lowered.

Roll-Down / Roll-Up Shutters are the most convenient shutter to use in storm protection for any home or business. Our product is Florida Building Code approved for Non-High Velocity and High Velocity Hurricane Zones (Dade and Broward counties). This high performing shutter fits many applications and retracts out of the way with the push of a button and/or a manual crank.

How Do Roll Down Shutters Work?

The Roll Down Shutter has slats made from extruded aluminum, that form a curtain which rolls up into an enclosed box. On either side of the window is a permanently mounted track system that holds these slats in place, while they are being raised or lowered. The better quality systems use what is called an end retention system. This end retention system locks the end of the slats in the track and does a better job of preventing the slats from being sucked out during a hurricane.

Roll Down Shutters can cover a variety of openings: standard windows and doors, enclosing patios and balconies, security for store front windows and doors.
