

Solar Roman Shade Benefits

- Reduced Energy Cost
- Stop UV Ray Damage
- Reduce Sunlight Glare
- Light Control
- Privacy

Solar Roman Shades come with a variety of fabric choices that will allow a wide range of views and light control options. These shades are made in the traditional way, the only difference is solar protective fabric is used.

The Solar Roman Shade has a traditional design that has been used with drapery fabric for many years. The look has always been created by the designer's imagination and the choice of fabric. Now, more control options are available and the fabric of choice is solar shade material. This material allows you to have your window view, yet the sunlight's harmful rays are prevented from entering your home. The fabric choices continue to expand, while the fold lines remain clean and crisp. Place a blackout shade behind your Roman to give you the ultimate in privacy control.

How Do Solar Roman Shades Work?

The solar Roman Shade is made from shade material that is attached to the front or the back of a board. The fabric is supported at even intervals, (length wise), by the use of a thin, support shaft that can be sewn into the fabric or a clear plastic no-sew system can be used. Cords are attached to either a thin rod or an aluminum tube that connects to the control unit mounted on the board. The cords are then threaded through rings that are attached to the support shafts, all the way down to the bottom of the fabric and attached to the last support shaft. The amount of cords used depends on the width of the shade. A manual clutch or motor is used to raise and lower the cords, thus raising or lowering the bottom of the fabric.

Solar Roman Shades can cover a variety of window sizes and shapes using a variety of light and privacy control fabric. They are best suited for large windows.
