

XL Pleated Shades Benefits

- Reduced Energy Cost
- Stop UV Ray Damage
- Reduce Sunlight Glare
- Light Control

XL Pleated Shades have oversized 2" pleats that make them suitable for larger windows, creating an impressive effect. The fabric choices are wide and range from simple to stunning jacquards.

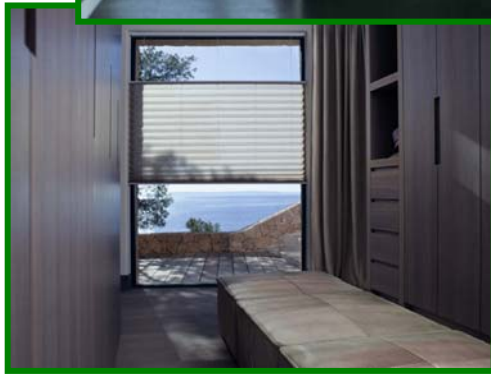

The Pleated Shade has been a versatile and easy care window treatment for many homes. The crisp look of the pleats and the tight stacking when the shade is open, make these shades a favorite for many modern decors. The collection of fabrics offers a range from stylish jacquards to colorful plain fabrics and from Japanese Paper to elegant look of Linen. The unique pitch cord guarantees equal pleats from top to bottom, even with large blinds. Just ask for privacy liner to be added to the back of the shade when more privacy or light control is needed.

How Do Pleated Shades Work?

The Pleated Shade consists of a headrail and bottomrail that attaches to the top and bottom of pleated fabric. The headrail houses a cord locking device that the lift cords run through, into holes that are in the center of the fabric, and then down to the bottomrail where they are attached. When the cords are pulled upon, the bottomrail raises and the cords are locked into position by the use of the cord locking device. For a Top Down/Bottom Up, a middle rail is added to the top of the fabric and an extra cord lock is added in the headrail. A separate set of cords are attached through this cord lock to the middle rail and now the fabric can be lowered from the top. The fabric is pleated in even intervals and can be prevented from opening flat by use of an extra support cord located behind the fabric. A privacy liner can be added to the back of the fabric to help better control light.

XL Pleated Shades can cover a variety of window and door sizes and can be clutch or motor controlled when the shade is too large for normal lifting cords.
